

First race in Brazilian Moto1000GP and first victory for Matthieu.

Yet that day did not look very well.

Matthieu was still suffering from his broken rib and he was afraid to perhaps not be able to ride as in Assen.

First laps with the BMW S 1000RR and Michelin tires requested big adjustment in free practice. Matt realizes only 9th place.

As to sessions, Matthieu understood better and better his bike and he realizes that he must change his riding style to take advantage.

Mission done with success because he was in first line in grid and after a race where only Miguel Praia followed him as his shadow, he was able to offer victory to Alex Barros team.

His teammate who is none other than Sebastian Porto, ex Grand Prix rider, Vice World Champion 250cc in 2004 behind Danny Pedrosa finished on third step of podium.
